

Atiqul Islam

NSU gets new VC

Staff Correspondent

PROFESSOR Atiqul Islam was appointed vice-chancellor of North South University on February 25, said a press release.

He served Edith Cowan University in Australia as pro-vice-chancellor before joining NSU.

Professor Atikul also served in different capacities at University of Canberra, University of Sydney, Curtin University, University of Canterbury and the National University of Singapore.

He has a strong track record in negotiating international programmes and academic administration.

He wishes to run his mission to lead the North South University to its next stage.

Professor Atikul has many publications in national and international journals.

He presented papers in international research conferences including the prestigious American Accounting Association, the British Accounting Association as well as the Accounting and Finance Association of Australia and New Zealand.

Obtaining B Com honours and M Com degree both in first class from the University of Dhaka, Professor Atikul pursued for another Masters from the University of New South Wales and a Ph D from the University of Sydney.