No decision on education policy without people's verdict

By A Staff Reporter

The Chief Martial Law Administrator, Lt. Gen. H. M. Ershad asserted on Friday that final decision on education policy would not be taken without the verdict of the people.

Addressing the nation over Radio and Television General Ershad said that there was no controversy on the necessity of education reform. With a view to eliciting public opinion questionnaires had been distributed and these would be examined and evaluated by an impartial committee he said.
