The Chittagong University (CU) authorities have arrested 32 people including students and outsiders in a crackdown against drugs on the campus.

During the raid yesterday, 11 mobile phones, 28 motorbikes, two private cars, cannabis, drugs and means used for taking drugs were seized. It continued for four hours from 5:00pm.

The arrestees include eight CU students, and the rest were outsiders.

Assistant Proctor Liton Mitra said as part of the crackdown against the drugs they conducted raids on the banks of Biological Faculty's pond, Central Field, behind Bangabandhu Hall, Social Science Faculty Jhupri, Onmukto Manch and other spots from yesterday afternoon to night.

He informed that they will impose academic penalties on the arrested students as per the university rule while police will take legal actions against the outsiders under rules.

Earlier this year, the CU administration imposed a restriction on the entry of outsiders to the campus and students were instructed to hold their ID cards with them constantly to verify them.
