Varsity and moral code

I have gone through the letter of Mr. M. A. Zafar Shah published on 25.8.66 in the Bangladesh Times. He denounces the present archaic and detrimental westernised system of education and suggested introduction of development oriented system.

He had not explained what is development oriented system. It seems from his version, that westerners are not developed and their system is not development oriented. Fanatics are those who want to impose their thoughts upon others without thinking that others' ideas may be better or others may also be repulsive.

If a western educated Professor invades western system without showing a 2nd acceptable system, he is certainly one of those who want to point-blank impose himself upon others.

Please suggest should we turn adopt Russian type of system or Indian oriental style.

Our ideological confusion and conviction to standardise through destruction have led us to this stage. One pleads for western system, the other for socialistic style-and the last one Indian and oriental style. When we the adult are doing so, what about of the growing children who too have very soft and receptive minds.

They must feel bewildered in the circumstances. Please look to the University of Calcutta. Do the Professors attack the system current there or are the students driven from one hall to another beaten black and blue like a flock of sheep?

So, Please do not rig, do not attack and do not thrust. The current of nature will gradually sweep us to the right path, provided we do not disturb ourselves thinking that our thoughts are all important.

Suitable and imperceptible changes are always acceptable.
