

BUETclosed sine die

Sir, The rampage at the BUET has shocked us. If the expulsion of the alleged student was made according the rules of the university then what has triggered the students against the decision? According to the decision, the alleged student was expelled for two years and then it was reduced to one year after appeal. We think the action taken is fair and timely. But a section of students has created violence on the campus revolting against the decision. Moreover, they have demanded for not only withdrawal of the decision but also expulsion of the teacher who caught the alleged student red handed.

I think the authority should take stern action against those involved in the incident so as to save the pride of this prestigious institute. Besides, probe body should be made to investigate whether any influential teacher of the BUET was involved in it. Because, the students could not have dared to go for such agitation without any strong support from within the BUET.

Enayet
A student of DU

BUET the authority concerned must detect the so-called students and teachers immediately rusticate them from the campus.

Engr M S Islam
Dhaka

BUET rampage

Sir, Learning about the news of violence and vandalism inside the BUET campus, we are invariably shocked. A nation of 120 million people has only a few prestigious educational institutions, and BUET is one of them. But it is evident from the recent rampage to damage the equipments and attack on teachers' residences that some students including a few teachers want to destroy the last quality educational institution of the country. In order to save