University Administration

Sir -It is a matter of great satisfaction that our present government has appointed a committee under the chairman ship of a prominent educa. tionist and this committee has invited suggestions from diffe rent academic corners as to how we can establish a peace ful and dedicated climate with in the campus of different universities. It is a fact that al. most all the universities of the sub-continent have disturbed situations and so it has be. difficult come . to know when a student should seek admission or enjoy peaceful period of study or hope to appear in the final examinaor prepare himself to enter the different spheres of trational services after com. pletion of his educational car. eer. Uncertainty has become the rule and the poor stu. dents and their even poorer guardians have to bear consequences of wastage money time and energy. It'is high time now that we should frame certain code of ethics for all concerned with the uni. versity education

There is apparently much substance in the demand for autonomy for the university administration. Naturally the atmosphere and harmony of the university life can be maintained only when the whole system is run on academic principles and operated by academicians

The other point of discus. sion and decision is as to whether we should involve our students and their organi. sation in the university ad. ministration or not. This ques tion is again related with the first one because after all the student organisations have political colours and if we ad. vocate an academic tone for university administration and consequently its autonomy we can never think of allowing student wings of political or. ganisations to complicate sthe academic atmosphere of the university. The students should aim at total dedication to learn ing with missionary devotion

THE SHUTEISKIETS BOOKS TO The finances of the univer. sities are to be nourished by the State because they serve the nation as organs of crea. knowledge and produc. tive research and it should the responsibility of the State to keep the atmosphere of the universities absolutely free from nolitical involvement and vested interferences. The sessions of the universities must be regularised at any cost and the semester system should be introduced to avoid wastage of time money and energy.

Universities are the custodians of our national life and so maximum efforts should be made to revitalize their operational programme. Universities should be provided with the best facilities our nation can afford and these seats of learn ring must serve the nation all angles to minimise from wants and calamities and to maximise human welfare and happiness.—Yours etc. AL-HAJ DR.
