Pakistan to help establish open university

Pakistan President Mr Ghulam Ishaq Khan assured all assistance for establishing an open university in Bangladesh. The assurance was given to Education Secretary Mr Hedayet Ahmed, when he called on Pakistan President in Islamabad on October 27 last, according to a delayed message received in Dhaka Wednesday, reports BSS.

The Education Secretary conveyed to the Pakistani President the fraternal greetings of President H M Ershad which was reciprocated by President Ghulam Ishaq Khan.

Mr Hedayet Ahmed is leading a delegation there to study the feasibility of establishing an open university in Bangladesh.

views a spiritual basis for educating the whole life of the individual and the community. Education in Islam provides guidance to the individual and equips him to march forward with confidence. It attempts to awaken in the educated faculties at every stage of his growth according to the demand of each stage of his life. The principles of Islam lead to the complete fulfilment of human nature. The goal of man is the fulfilment of Divine purpose in his creation which is to without ilm. Everything which could be learned and required understanding is ilm.

That education is a life-long process is a contribution of Islam to the world's culture. The aim of education in Islam is to help people to feel deeply, only to instruct but to supply the conviction, the confidence, the motive for noble action and to impart knowledge comparatively complete, not mere information.
