DU to hand over expelled students to police

Varsity Correspondent

The Dhaka University Provost Standing Committee at a meeting on Tuesday decided to handover the students who had been expelled or declared persona-non-grata to police if they were further seen on the campus or in any hall.

They also requested the law enforcing agencies to arrest those students instantly if they came to the campus.

Dhaka University authorities also warned the outsiders that their identities would be challenged by the police and if they failed to produce any reasonable identification documents, they would be handed over to the law enforcing agencies.

This decision has been taken by the university authorities after they had caught a former student and a girl student of Eden College in an indecent state at the ER Building on Tuesday evening.
