Expelled student ransacks exam hall at CU

From CU Correspondent

CHITTAGONG, Dec 3:—A examination hall of Anthropology Department of Chittagong University on Saturday ransacked by a student of the department.

According to the university sources, Didarul Alam, a second year student of Anthropology who expelled for three months recently for violation of university rules came to attend his second year final examination. But the teachers who were on the duty refused him as his expulsion was not yet over. Then Didar came out of the examination hall and returned after a short while with some associates and ransacked the hall, torn the answer and question paper of other students. He also threatened the other students that, if they attend the examination then they will be punished. Later the examination was held with police guard.
