Dhaka Varsity Day today

By Our D.U. Correspondent

The fifth Dhaka University Day will be observed today (Friday).

A combined parade of the BNCC rangers and rovers at the lawn between the Arts Faculty and administrative building at 8:30 a.m. will mark the beginning of the observance.

Former Foreign Minister Prof Shamsul Haq will be the chief guest, while the Vice-Chancellor of the University

Prof. Abdul Mannan will preside over the inaugural meeting.

The programme of the day includes open air drama, recitation, music, exhibition of handicrafts, arts and paintings, photographs, books and manuscript.

Mass Communication and Journalism Department will organise an exhibition of old newspapers, photographs and books while D.U. Journalists Association will organise a display of some important facts about the university and photographs showing various activities in the campus.

All departments, institutes, halls, libraries, laboratories, cafeterias will remain open for the visitors till afternoon.

It may be mentioned that the Dhaka University Day is being observed since 1983 as an alternative to the "ragday" to facilitate the former students, guardians and general public in knowing the ins and out about the highest seat of learning.

The University authorities at a statement invited all the persons interested in education to visit the University today.
